1	Extend the testing hours to accommodate those working full time	11/13/2024 10:26 AM
2	I would really like Germanna to invest in its Culpeper campus. A lot of people in Culpeper attend Germanna, but either have to drive all the way to Fredericksburg or be completely online because the Culpeper campus rarely has in-person teachers. In almost all of the classes I've taken "in-person" at the Daniel Tech Center, the teacher zooms in from another campus, which is essentially useless.	11/5/2024 7:29 PM
3	I will say I do like flexibility. Some classes I feel would've been nice to take online, and some I'm content with in-person. I would definitely say that I am not fond of strict attendance policies with in-person classes, as sometimes there may be something in my personal life that could happen, but the policy would restrict me from missing class. Another thing, is that it would allow me to easily go from class time to homework, being home and all that. As well as, my largest concern being that I would not know how I would like to attend a class, until I have enough experience, or something comes up later in the semester. However, sometimes by that point of realization I wouldn't be allowed to drop the class. On the other hand, these events rarely happen, which is understandable as not all things are in our control. So in the end, it's not a bad system the school has, it's just impossible to account for everything in life. Thank you.	11/2/2024 5:11 PM

6	I wish you had a more even distribution of classes at every campus. I live closer to the Locus Grove campus but have to go to the Fredericksburg campus because there are more class options at the Fredericksburg campus.	11/1/2024 3:57 PM
7	I have found that just because a class is listed as asynchronous in the course and section that is not always true, i.e. being required to go to campus to take exams etc. is not asynchronous and I would simply ask that those courses be described correctly in the course listings so its easier to make choices without having to ask for a syllabus from each potential professor.	11/1/2024 3:31 PM
8	The best Chemistry teacher Germanna seems to have only offer advanced pace/online courses. I'd love it if a 15 week in person class was offered with them.	11/1/2024 3:19 PM

25	After taking an online course with WGU (Western Governors University) I feel like their model for online courses worked extremely well for me and the time I have available. It would be wise to offer a similar course setup for adult learners and those who don't have the flexibility and availability to work on a degree the traditional way or in the online format Germanna already offers. The online courses I am taking currently have been challenging to keep up with for that reason and because of this I am struggling to pass the courses I am registered for. This is leaving me extremely discouraged to continue.	10/19/2024 9:01 AM

29	The school promotes to non-traditional students. But expects us to drop life like a traditional college student. Perhaps a lot of this should be taken into consideration. I applied preferentially to the part time program, but was admitted to the full time nursing program. I have a FT job, FT family, etc. I accepted because it was the only option and feel the work I am doing is more confusing (due to organization) and more intensive than my first bachelor's degree. More consideration needs to be geared toward non-traditional students as it is now days a majority of community college students.	10/17/2024 10:13 AM
30	I've noticed myself and my peers are struggling to find time to eat lunch. This is due to morning classes starting at 8 and running until after noon, and then having to go to another class at 2. Traffic is unfortunately horrific any time after 4pm, so I'd love to see classes ending at 3:45-4 instead of 4:25-4:50pm. Thank you:)	10/17/2024 8:43 AM

34	I participate in the part-time nursing program. Although I understand that some of the program work (clinicals/labs/simulations) require in person attendance, I think the lecture material should be offered online. I work a full time job while attending nursing school. As I enrolled in nursing school I understood that I would need to take off some time for school events. However, I did not realize quite how often I would need to be taking off. The part time program was advertised as the perfect option for someone that works full time but with the schedule that I have received it makes it difficult to maintain both. I completely understand the sacrifices that need to be made in order to achieve my goal to become a nurse and this program so far has been great, aside from the scheduling which I know is no one's fault as there are many students to take care of. My only recommendation would be to offer as much as possible online for those that may benefit from an asynchronous schedule. Again, I am not in any way trying to be negative as I think everyone has done a great job, I just think this may be a good option for individuals trying to work and go to school.	10/16/2024 4:18 PM
35	I want to know who my academic advisor and transfer advisor are or how I can talk to one. Also, when do we get to schedule our appointments? Thank you so much!! - Amber Alpire	10/16/2024 2:05 PM
36	I don't think that classes, online and in-person, should have such strict time-limits on quizzes, tests, and exams. Most professors will allot a time-limit, and then say something such as "This should be more than enough time to finish without feeling the need to rush," but they fail to understand that they are masters at that subject, so of course that would be enough time for	10/16/2024 12:39 PM them to finish, but for someone who is still relatively new at the subject, that time-limit is almost impossible to finish in. I don't think there should be any time-limits at all, especially if the student opted to get proctored in-person. As for in-person math classes, especially those taken at night, students should have the option to be proctored at the testing center, so that they can complete their exams earlier in the day, with as much time as they need, without having to feel rushed because the professor wants to go to bed.

37	For my dental career field I want to take the TEAS exam but not sure how I would study for it, i would like to have recommendations for it. I needed to take a physiology class during fall 2024 but it got canceled and couldn't do it online because my FAFSA was messed up and when I tried to join the class it was full so I didn't get to take all the classes I wanted to for Fall 2024.	10/16/2024 12:17 PM

39	It's been much less stressful being in community college as opposed to when I was in a 4-year institution before. I appreciate all of the services that Germanna offers to students, and it has without a doubt made my return to academia easier. Thank you.	10/16/2024 12:01 PM
40	In all my classes I would love to have detailed explanations online	10/16/2024 10:13 AM
41	Have expanded in person testing center hours to match other local community colleges and four-year universities would be helpful. For some, taking a test remotely is not doable. Stating there is a lack of staff to provide expanded hours is only a valid reason if you care currently seeking more employees. I have not seen a job posting for additional staff. It would also be helpful, if emails to counselors and individual degree offices were actually answered or acknowledged. Overall, I chose GCC due to geographic proximity. However, I would say they are below par compared to other options in Virginia.	10/16/2024 9:30 AM
